GOLDEN DAYS AT WILLIAMSPORT HIGH

What is an ordinary day at Williamsport High School? By scanning the pages of this book, one will soon realize that there are no ordinary days here. Each moment finds someone learning to do a new math problem, speak a second language, excel in sports. Each golden day holds a new experience for every student at Williamsport High.

Many changes have occurred this year at Bingy High. New teachers have joined the faculty, and a new principal has become a part of the administration. Last September's first graders began their school lives in new classrooms constructed during the summer.

The installation of these portable classrooms is a clue to an inevitable, greater change to come to Williamsport High in the near future. We are constantly aware of the fact that our school will not be as it was yesterday, nor remain as it is today. Every fleeting second holds memories and every day is ripe with pride and the warmth of friendships begun in these hallways. These are the Golden Days at Williamsport High.

SENIORS WIN HONORS

Kenny Ritchie and Cyndy Zenor proudly display their band sweaters awarded to them for active interest in the organization. Kenny, who plays the trombone, has been a member for four years. Cyndy has played the cornet for eight years.

This year letter jackets were awarded to Jerry High and Kenny Ritchie.

Nancy Walters, D.A.R. Good Citizen Award winner for Warren County, receives her pin from Mr. Burns.

Confused Jeff Wood examines his report card. Could the teacher have made a mistake?

Every day at Williamsport High is different. The groups which gather near the lockers each morning never fail to find something new to chat about. As they await the beginning of another day, the girls discuss the latest fashions, Susie's present crush, and how hard last night's math assignment was. Likewise, the fellows manage to comment on the team's chances of winning the Sectional, the advantages of joining the Marines, the new transmission in Joe's car, and a weird recording made by a group of flower children.

As the first period class gets under way, the students learn of the events of the day via the bulletin. Organizations hold meetings, the Goldenrod meets its deadline, and everyone notices that the bulletin board display has been changed. Report cards are issued, and faces either beam with satisfaction or frown with worry. Freshmen adjust to being full-fledged high school students while seniors prepare to go out into the world as adults. With so many things happening, how could there possibly be a dull moment for anyone?

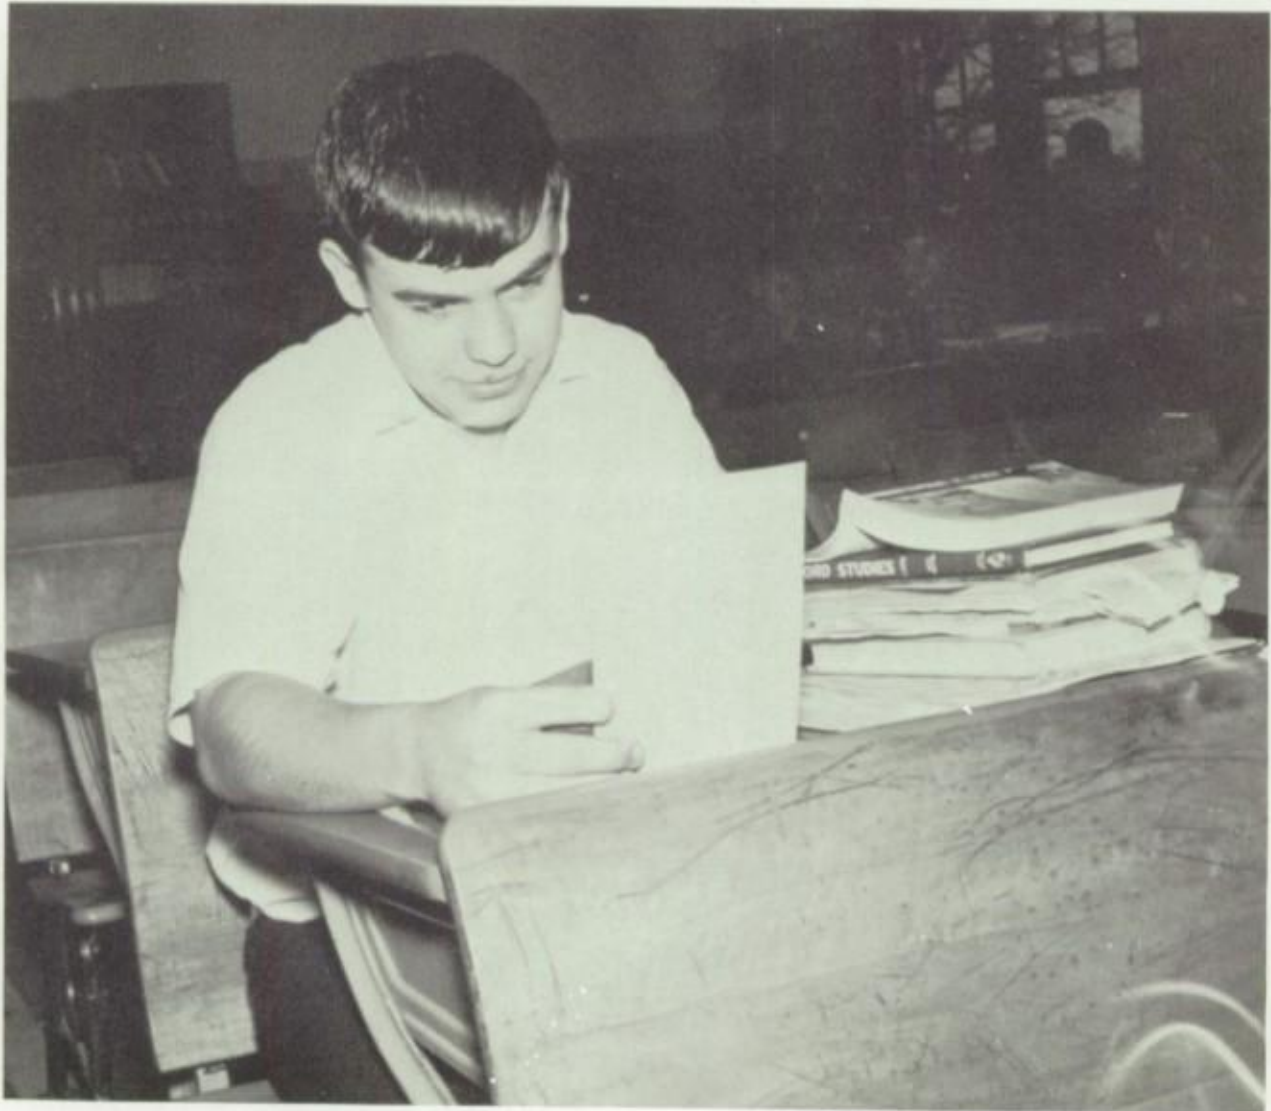

A famous northern visitor was immediately recognized by many members of the student body at our Christmas convocation.

DULL MOMENT

Seniors, Marilyn Wilson, Sandi Durrett, and Nancy Hurley, may never be skilled enough to build their own dream homes, but they are learning the fundamentals of shop. Several girls found this new course very interesting.

Alan Nash knows that study halls aren't long and boring if you put the time to good use. This established practice may have helped him become a new member of the National Honor Society. Others should give it a try!

Randy Wurtsbaugh and Greg Balser agree that everyone should learn to file their own income tax returns. They will save money by figuring their own, and may even earn some by computing others.

TIME AND PLANNING

SUCCESSFUL PROM

These young couples danced in the romantic atmosphere of "An Evening in Paris."

The 1967 Junior-Senior Prom was held May 5, after many months of work and planning by the Juniors and their sponsors. A buffet dinner was served at George's in Danville, followed by the formal dance in the elaborately-decorated gymnasium.

"An Evening in Paris" was created with sidewalk cafes, romantic music, French perfume, berets, a gushing fountain, and boxes of vivid flowers. Guests entered the night of elegance through the Arc de Triomphe, and marveled at the Eiffel Tower.

The Junior Parents' After-Prom Party was a great success. Good food and exuberating music, produced by the Fourth Hour, carried the prom-goers through to the breakfast served at the Legion Home.

Music for the gala event was provided by Shorty Nelson and the Blue Notes.

Several members of the faculty and school board, with their guests, enjoyed the dinner at George's Buffet, followed by dancing in the beautifully decorated gymnasium.

RESULT IN AND CARNIVAL

The PTO Carnival, Friday night, October 20, was off to a festive start with the smorgasbord supper, served in the cafeteria. The new gymnasium was the scene of fun and games for all ages. The younger children spent much of their time at the traditional Fish Pond. The Cake Walk and the Country Store attracted many people during the course of the evening. Bingo was another popular pastime.

The crowning of this year's King and Queen took place at 8:00 p.m. Through much effort by the committee headed by Mrs. Robert Balser, the Coronation was very impressive. The winners, Steve May and Cheryl Walters, Juniors, were presented with treasure chests filled with gifts. The other candidates were also presented with memoirs of the event. A dance, featuring the Gilbert Street Exit, was held in the old gym at 9:30.

Parents, teachers, and students agree that this year's PTO Carnival has far surpassed previous carnivals. It was a complete success.

Mr. Burns crowned King Steve May and Queen Cheryl Walters, the Junior candidates. The "monarchs" felt that all the campaigning had been worth it.

The dance, also sponsored by the PTO, provided entertainment for both Bingy and neighboring students.

STUDENTS PERFORM

Some students at Williamsport High are happy only when they are busy. Such is the case with those who have daily duties at school besides their school work. This year three senior girls helped elementary teachers with the grading of papers, typing, and mimeographing. Seven students worked in the library during their study hall periods. Seven other students delivered bulletins and collected attendance reports for the office. They also performed other tasks as "girl Fridays." Patrol Boys, sixth and seventh graders, accepted the responsibility of assuring safety for walking elementary children. Other junior high girls aided the cooks in the cafeteria.

Senior girls, Helen Brooks, Vanna Arnold, and Brenda Murray, aided grade school teachers by grading papers, running off dittoes, and typing.

EDUCATION . . . FOR GOLDEN DAYS AHEAD

Education has always been important in American life, but never has it been as vital as today. In order for a young person to succeed in this rapidly changing world, he must have at least a high school education. Gone are the days when a boy with an eighth grade education could work his way up in the world of business or any other occupation.

The basic purpose of the free, public school system of America is to educate tomorrow's citizens—parents, doctors, teachers, scientists, social workers, and countless other essential parts of a great society such as this. Williamsport High School offers courses of study which will prepare a young American for the great responsibilities he must meet. This is true not only in respect to the college-bound student, but also to tomorrow's vocational and technical workers.

American Education Week was observed the week of November 5-11. An open house held on November 8 was well attended by interested parents.

THE THREE FACES OF ENGLISH

Kenny Wertz knows that one of the best ways to attract the attention of his audience is to begin his speech with an amusing story.

One of the required reading books for sophomores was Melville's MOBY DICK. Helen Ware becomes involved in the tale of the great white whale.

Students who study English at W.H.S. soon realize that it is not one subject, but three. One becomes able to distinguish between adverbs and adjectives in English grammar. He reads and learns to enjoy various types of short stories, essays, articles, and novels in English literature. A student taking speech learns to attract the attention of an audience and convey a message to others.

Three years of English are required at W.H.S. Most seniors who plan to attend college find that the fourth year of English will be very beneficial for them. Whether or not a student is college bound, English is an important course of study; it is our language and we should be skilled in its usage.

This year several literary works were introduced to the students as required reading. Sophomores read TALE OF TWO CITIES by Charles Dickens. Juniors became acquainted with the style of Herman Melville in MOBY DICK while seniors discovered the high adventure of an epic poem, THE ODYSSEY, by Homer.

¿HABLAN USTEDES ESPAÑOL?

Two years of Spanish are offered to high school students at Williamsport. This language is important because it is the language of our Latin American neighbors. It is essential to college-bound students since most colleges require that the applicant have at least two years of some foreign language before college.

First year Spanish students marvel at how quickly they learn to associate Spanish words with familiar objects. Reading, writing, and speaking basic phrases are learned in the first year.

The second year of Spanish is a little more difficult than the first, but the students find that studying a second language is a rewarding experience. Emphasis is placed on pronunciation, vocabulary, parts of speech, and reading comprehension. The students become aware of the fact that one speaks best in Spanish when he thinks in Spanish. Through the study of this language, students learn much about the people in the Central and South American countries.

Second year students proudly display the piñatas they made at Christmas time. SHOWN ARE: Jerry Wurtsbaugh, Jim Kane, Joyce Watson, Alan Nash, Susan Wilson, Becky Flint, Richard Barnhart, and Mary Bower.

When learning a new language, it's only natural to make a few humorous mistakes. These freshmen, Nancy Gremore, Janice Berry, Fred Fix, and Bob Abel, are well aware of the fact.

MATH AND SCIENCE

The mathematics department at Williamsport High School offers five courses of study. Freshman students may choose either Algebra I, a subject very different from anything they were accustomed to in junior high school, or general math, an advanced course in basic math procedures. Plane geometry, a unique study which demands concentration, becomes a challenge to many sophomores. Juniors find Algebra II an extension of their first year algebra with more complex problems. Senior math is a combination of advanced algebra, trigonometry, solid geometry, and calculus.

The mathematics department provides adequate experiences in this field for the college-bound student, the future homemaker, and tomorrow's executive. Both the technical and the practical aspects of mathematics are explored in the classes under the direction of competent teachers. Not only does the student learn how to compute logarithms and use a slide rule effectively, but also how to reason logically in other subjects. Math is essential to every student at W.H.S.

Senior math student, Jim Claypool, looks with interest at some optical illusion math puzzlers.

After only a few days of geometry Alan Nash, sophomore, found that parallel lines could be constructed with a compass.

CHALLENGE EAGER, YOUNG MINDS

Science has always been a vital part of our lives, but never before has it had such an impact on our everyday existence. In this, the Atomic Age, everyone must have some scientific background or be completely "out of it".

Four courses are offered by the science department at Williamsport High. Freshmen are required to take a year of biology, the study of living things. Sophomore science students are offered physical science, the study of non-living things. Geology, astronomy, basic chemistry, and other fields are dealt with. Physics and chemistry alternate years due to the small number of class members. Juniors and seniors may take chemistry one year and physics the next. Chemistry is the study of the natural elements and the way they react with other elements. Physics, making use of many of the math procedures, is the study of forces in nature.

With a well-equipped laboratory at their disposal and excellent guidance, Williamsport students are preparing for the scientific world. The Atomic Age will not be a puzzle to them.

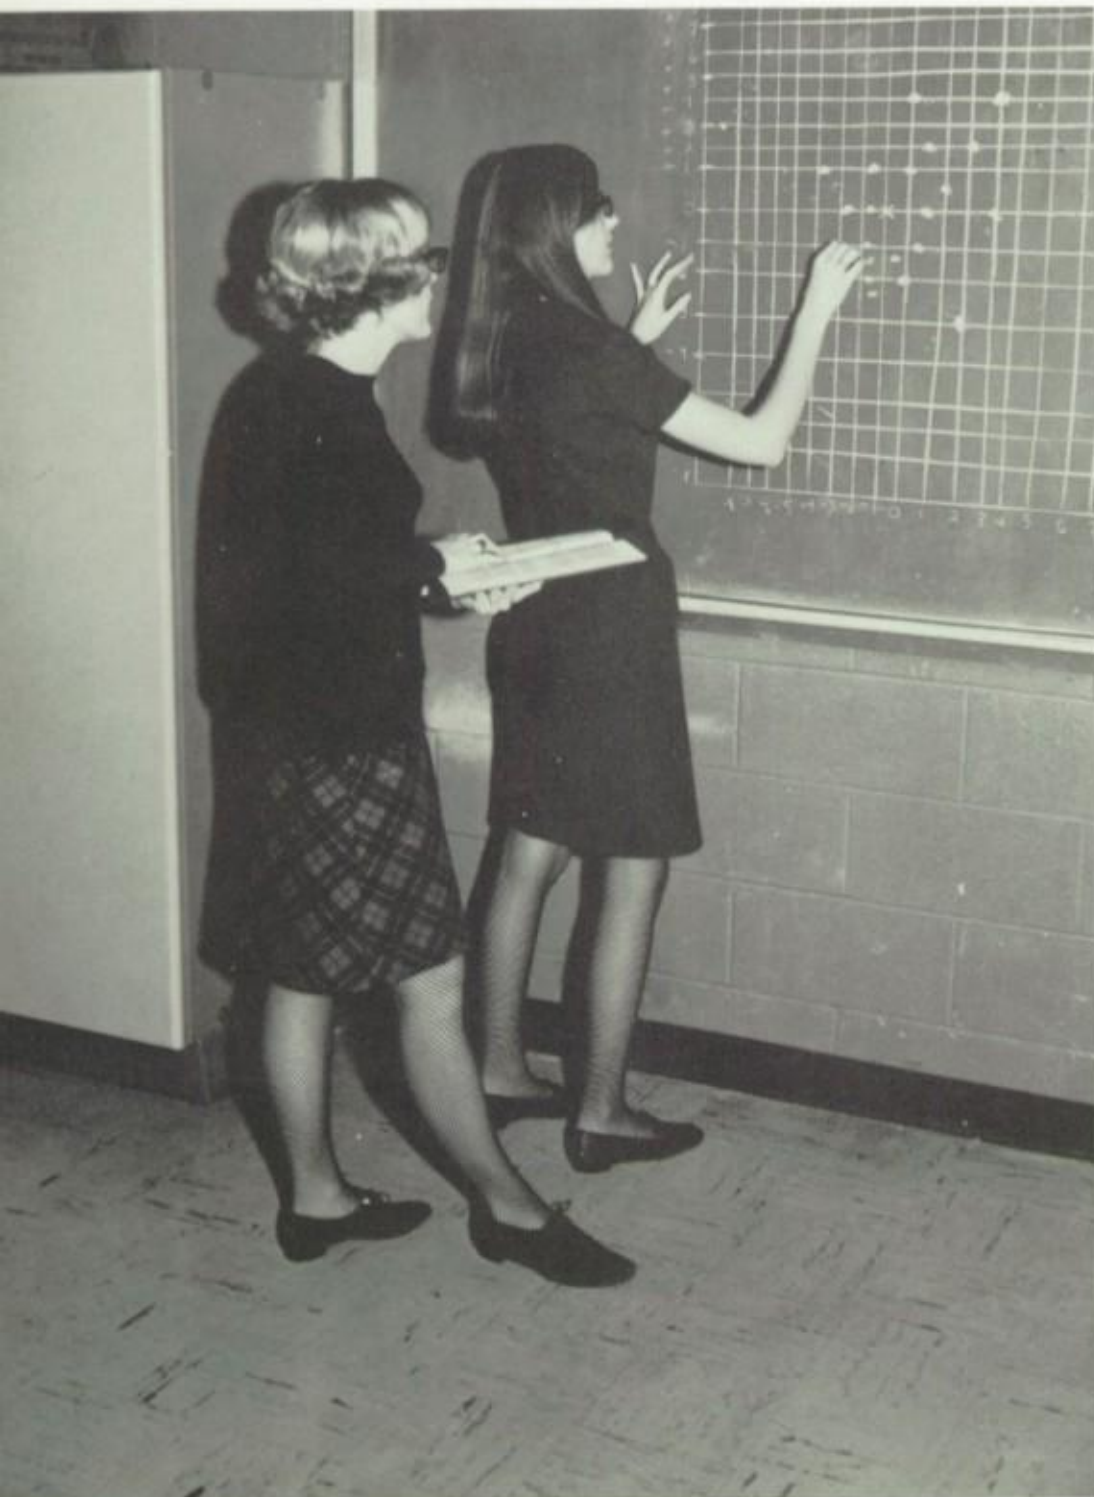

Norman Bower and Jane DeBord, freshman biology students, observe the life in a "desert" which was created as a class project.

Some physics students demonstrate the effect static electricity has on foil leaves in an electroscope.

SOCIAL STUDIES PROVIDE KNOWLEDGE OF WORLD

Cheryl Walters reads psychological statistics to Sue McAdams who plots the numbers on an introvert-extrovert correlation graph.

Social studies are important to W.H.S. students because they provide knowledge of the world outside Williamsport and outside our own country. Through social studies the problems of our time become clear to us and we are able to find solutions to these problems.

In November the psychology class visited the state prison at Michigan City. Such a field trip is beneficial in the study of human behavior. Sophomores can study world history, and juniors have U.S. history. Seniors are required to take a semester of government in order to graduate.

Seniors study the foundations and functions of our government. This includes the three basic units of the government and the several departments.

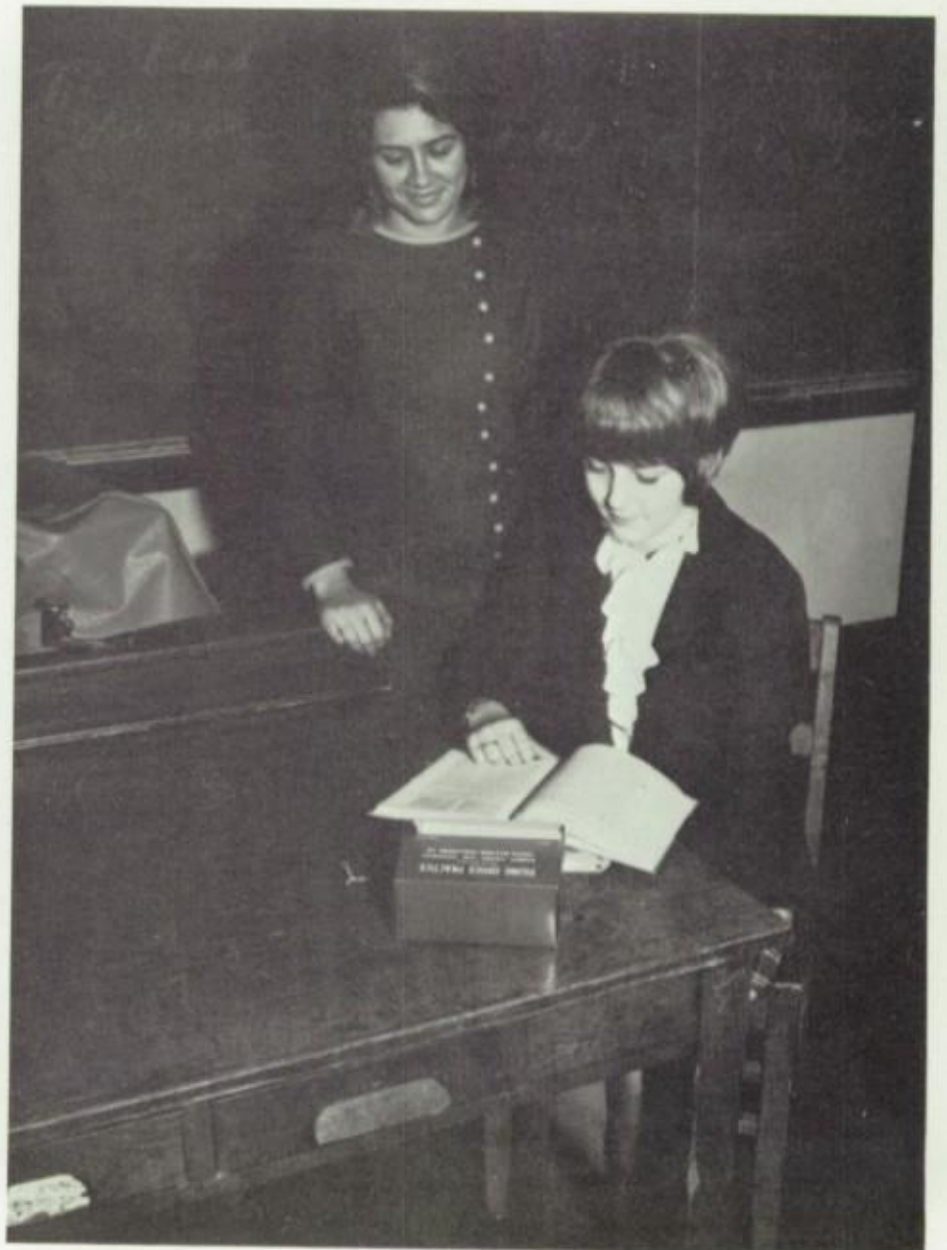

Typist, Tom Siefert, knows that there's more to the skill than simply knowing where the keys are. Here he changes the ribbon on his machine.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT BUILDS TOMORROW'S EXECUTIVES

The commercial department offers a course to every student at W.H.S. Whatever field a person goes into, there is always a need for business knowledge.

Commercial courses offered are typing, general business, bookkeeping, shorthand, and office practice. In general business freshmen become acquainted with terms to be used in other business courses. Typing and bookkeeping are practical subjects which can be utilized by any student in years to come. Girls in office practice and shorthand prepare for professions in the commercial world.

Miss Kielas and senior office practice student, Nancy Hurley, look over a filing exercise.

CREATIVITY LEARNED

Two girls mix up a cake according to the recipe. They learn that, in order for the results to be a success, they must follow directions.

Those who take Home Economics, Industrial Arts, or Art learn many useful and pleasure-bringing things to do. Some of their accomplishments will aid them in being successful homemakers, in acquiring vocational jobs, and in securing hours of enjoyment through rewarding, creative hobbies.

In Home Economics girls are taught to sew. This skill covers the choosing of fabrics and design as well as learning how to follow a pattern, sewing techniques, and maintenance of the machines.

The preparation of foods is another basic skill of Home Ec. The girls learn to cook and bake, keeping in mind the rules of proper diet and nutrition.

Other subjects covered in Home Economics are home nursing, child development, interior decorating, and good grooming.

Our shop is equipped with tools of many shapes, sizes, and purposes. One group of boys listens as Mr. Woodard explains a certain procedure while another group prepares for a test.

Freshmen, Jill Schmid and Debbie Wilson, work on the garments which they have cut out according to pattern. Each girl has a drawer in which to keep her materials.

IN HOME EC., SHOP, AND ART

Many boys in school enjoy working with their hands. By taking Industrial Arts they are given the opportunity to weld, to draft, and to learn how to create with wood and metal.

Art is another popular subject. In this class one can paint, sculpture, draw, work with ceramics, or weave. The Art Department is well-equipped with materials for every type of creativity. A kiln enables the students to fire their own pottery. Looms are available for the weaving of mats, rugs, and huge pillows. Oil paints are available in order that the students can capture lovely scenes on canvas.

Marilee Ritchie enjoys weaving in Art class. This rug is woven with very coarse, colorful yarn.

Many of the student artists at W.H.S. enjoy painting. Here Grady Slade adds a touch of talent to some flowers.

ORGANIZATIONS AND THEIR ACTIVITIES

The knowledge that a student of Williamsport School attains does not end in the classroom. There are some subjects which a school should offer which are not available in text books or lectures. Countless essential lessons and experiences are encountered by the students through participation in extra-curricular activities. These lessons are important in preparing students for the lives which lie before them.

In taking part in an organization meeting, conducted by the officers which he has elected, a student learns to respect the rights of others, to cooperate with others having similar interests, and to appreciate the goals which the organization might have. He also learns to accept responsibility, something which every young person must achieve before he can be a successful adult.

There are clubs at W.H.S. for every student's interest. The wise student budgets his time in order to combine extra-curricular activities and academic work in such a way that he develops as a well-rounded individual.

Students with musical ability find band to be a rewarding challenge and an opportunity to excel.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council members are: Mary Beth Dickey and Danny Able, eighth graders; Neal Gremore and Dwight Crowmer, seventh graders; Jim Kane and Steve Warren, sophomores; Don Abel and Marianne Dobbels, freshmen; Tom Siefert and Melinda Whorton, juniors; Mr. Barry Worl, sponsor; Nancy Hurley and Jerry High, seniors.

At the beginning of the school year each of the junior high and high school classes elected two Student Council representatives. These twelve representatives, with their sponsor, meet often throughout the year to promote the best school life for students of Williamsport High School.

One of the services rendered by the Student Council is the presentation of numerous entertainment programs for the student body. Not only are professional entertainers, such as Bucky Reeves and his nature films, featured in convocations, but the Student Council members themselves have taken part in two convocations of their own. Much time and planning resulted in the success of the Thanksgiving program and Christmas program.

Officers of the Student Council this year are: Nancy Hurley, president; Jerry High, vice-president; Jim Kane, secretary-treasurer; and Marianne Dobbels, reporter.

Mary Beth Dickey, Nancy Hurley, and Dwight Crowmer registered guests and handed out programs as hosts at the open house in observance of American Education Week in November.

NEW ORGANIZATIONS MAKE DEBUTS AT W.H.S.

ART CLUB

One of the organizations making its first appearance at Williamsport High this year is the Art Club. Several of its members have exhibited artistic talent and this club gives those students an opportunity to pursue their interests outside of art class.

The Art Club meets regularly each Tuesday after school. Miss Pamela Adamson, the school art instructor, is the club's sponsor.

Future Teachers of America is the second new organization at our school this year. For high school students interested in exploring teaching as a career, this club is a co-operative project of the National Education Association.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

The Williamsport Chapter's constitution was drawn up and officers installed in November. Members are given the opportunity to obtain some experience in the classroom as "student" teachers. There is much information available to them on the career of teaching, and the club brings out the many rewards of the profession.

TWO PUBLICATIONS KEEP

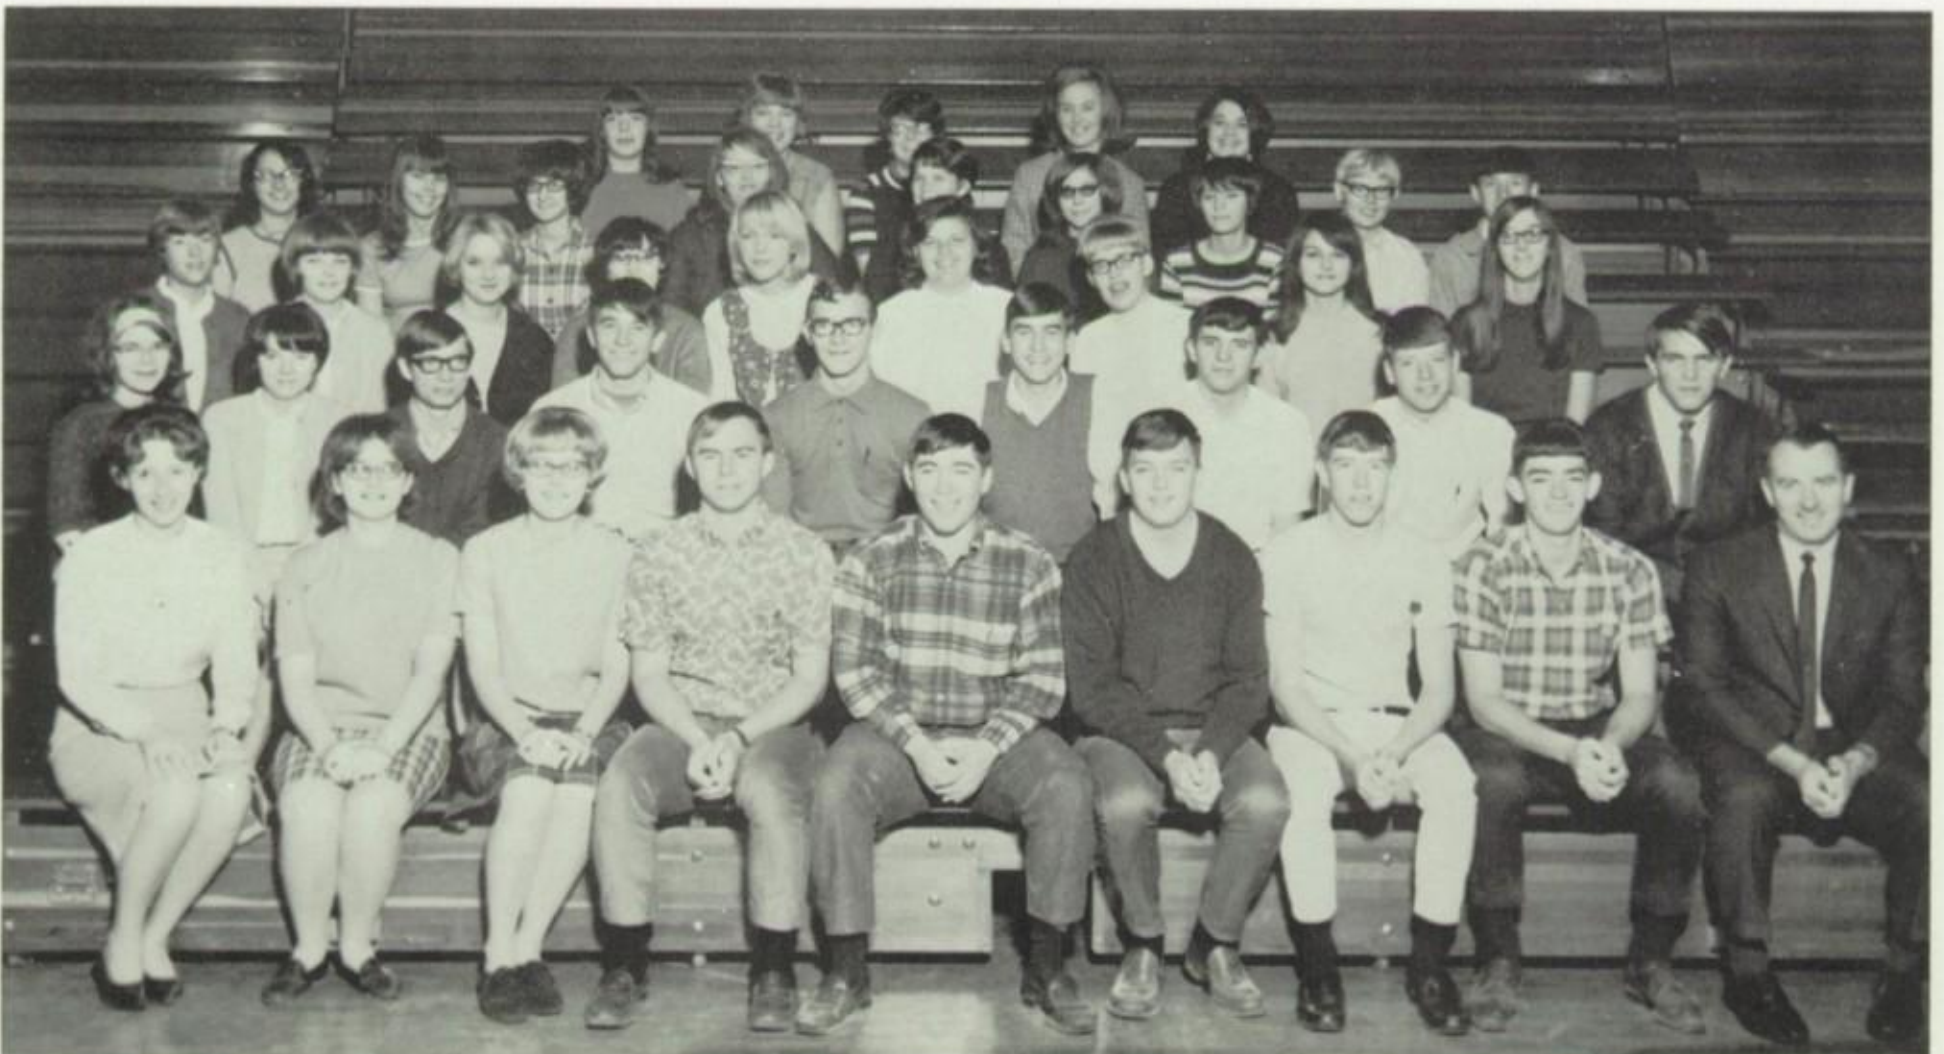

Journalism is big business at W.H.S. Two publications, the Goldenrod and the Voice of Bingy, are well staffed with interested students who don't mind giving up a study hall now and then to get out the latest edition on the market.

The yearbook staff was organized at the first of the school year with many juniors and seniors eager to produce a superior Goldenrod. Their enthusiasm was reflected in the record number of advertisements they sold in this community.

Mrs. Susan Stephan and Mr. Burns were the sponsors of the Goldenrod this year. The editor was Nancy Walters and assistant editor was Cheryl Walters. Mr. Morris Bowen took all of the pictures, and Randy Wurtsbaugh was the Goldenrod sales manager.

Production of the 1968 Goldenrod began with a meeting in September with our Inter-Collegiate representative, Mr. Wayne Atkinson.

BINGY JOURNALISTS BUSY

The staff members of THE VOICE OF BINGY not only learn the basics of the newspaper business, but also benefit from the actual work required in publishing the school newspaper monthly. Guided by their sponsor, Miss Kielas, the co-editors, Mike Livengood and Cyndy Zenor, organize their staff into various departments—reporting, writing, typing, and copyreading. Working on the school paper is an entertaining way to utilize the lessons learned in English and typewriting classes.

Co-editors Mike Livengood and Cyndy Zenor, receive Miss Kielas's approval of a stencil before THE VOICE OF BINGY goes to press.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Scholarship, leadership, character, and service are the characteristics upon which the National Honor Society is based. To qualify for membership in this service organization, a student must be a sophomore, junior, or senior. He must have attended Williamsport High School for at least one semester and have a B grade average.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Christine Lawrence and Mr. Leonard Burns, sponsors, the Williamsport Chapter of the National Honor Society re-evaluated the constitution and pledged a year of service to the school and the community. At Christmas a two-week holiday drive was held. Toys, canned goods, and clothing were collected, sorted, and distributed to twelve area families, thus helping to make the holiday season a little more meaningful for both the families and the Honor Society members.

The Honor Society members joined with the Student Council in hosting the open house during American Education Week. For two weeks in January the bulletin board in the upper hall was designed by the organization and Mrs. Lawrence.

Through the efforts of Mr. Burns and the generosity of several local clubs and organizations, this year the Honor Society members were awarded blazers.

OFFICERS ARE: Nancy Walters, president; Marsha Dickey, vice president; Sue McAdams, secretary; and Cheryl Walters, treasurer.

BAND CONTRIBUTES TO SCHOOL SPIRITS

The students in Williamsport School are proud of their band. Although the band is small in number, it is by no means minute when expressing school spirit. With the nostalgic "On Wisconsin" it firmly stands behind the team at home basketball games. During the between games intermission, the band serenades the crowd with various types of music. The Student Council found that this organization could be relied upon to supply the necessary music for convocations.

The members of the band displayed their pride in selling candy in the community to raise funds to enlarge and improve the music department.

In November, the band traveled to Mishawaka to see the United States Marine Band perform. The Williamsport band participated for the first time in the Indiana University High School Band Day at Bloomington last fall.

Two senior band members were presented sweaters as a symbol of the many hours they had spent working with the band. The proud recipients were Cyndy Zenor, who plays cornet, and Kenny Ritchie, trombone.

The band and a special girls' chorus "Joined forces" in performing at the Christmas convocation. The chorus was featured in two specials, and then sang with the band on numerous carols.

PEP CLUB'S CHANTS URGE BOMBERS ON

The Pep Club is a group of high-spirited students who like to display that spirit by cheering for their team. No matter what competition the Bombers meet, or where the battle occurs, the faithful Pep Club backs them with encouragement to the very last second of action.

There are certain membership requirements set for Pep Club, which was re-organized this year. Members must attend all home games except under extenuating circumstances, and at least half of the away games. The official dress of the Pep Club is white blouse and dark skirt or trousers.

Free transportation on the pep bus is provided for all members going to the away games. These trips offer the group the chance to learn new cheers and chants, and to kindle that old Bingy Bomber "super-spirit".

At the beginning of the basketball season, the Pep Club sold name spaces on the homegame programs to persons and businesses who wished to back the Bombers.

The Pep Club sponsor is Mrs. JoAnn Johnson. OFFICERS ARE: Cyndy Zenor, president; Becky Wagner, secretary; and Aleta McMurtrie, treasurer.

LETTERMEN CARRY ON BOMBER TRADITIONS

The lettermen's club at Williamsport High is known as the W-Club. Any athlete or sports manager who has earned a letter may be a member of this organization.

The ultimate goal of every sportsman is to someday earn the right to wear the traditional red and black letter jacket. This year two senior boys were awarded the jackets as evidence of their interest and activity in the athletic programs at W.H.S.

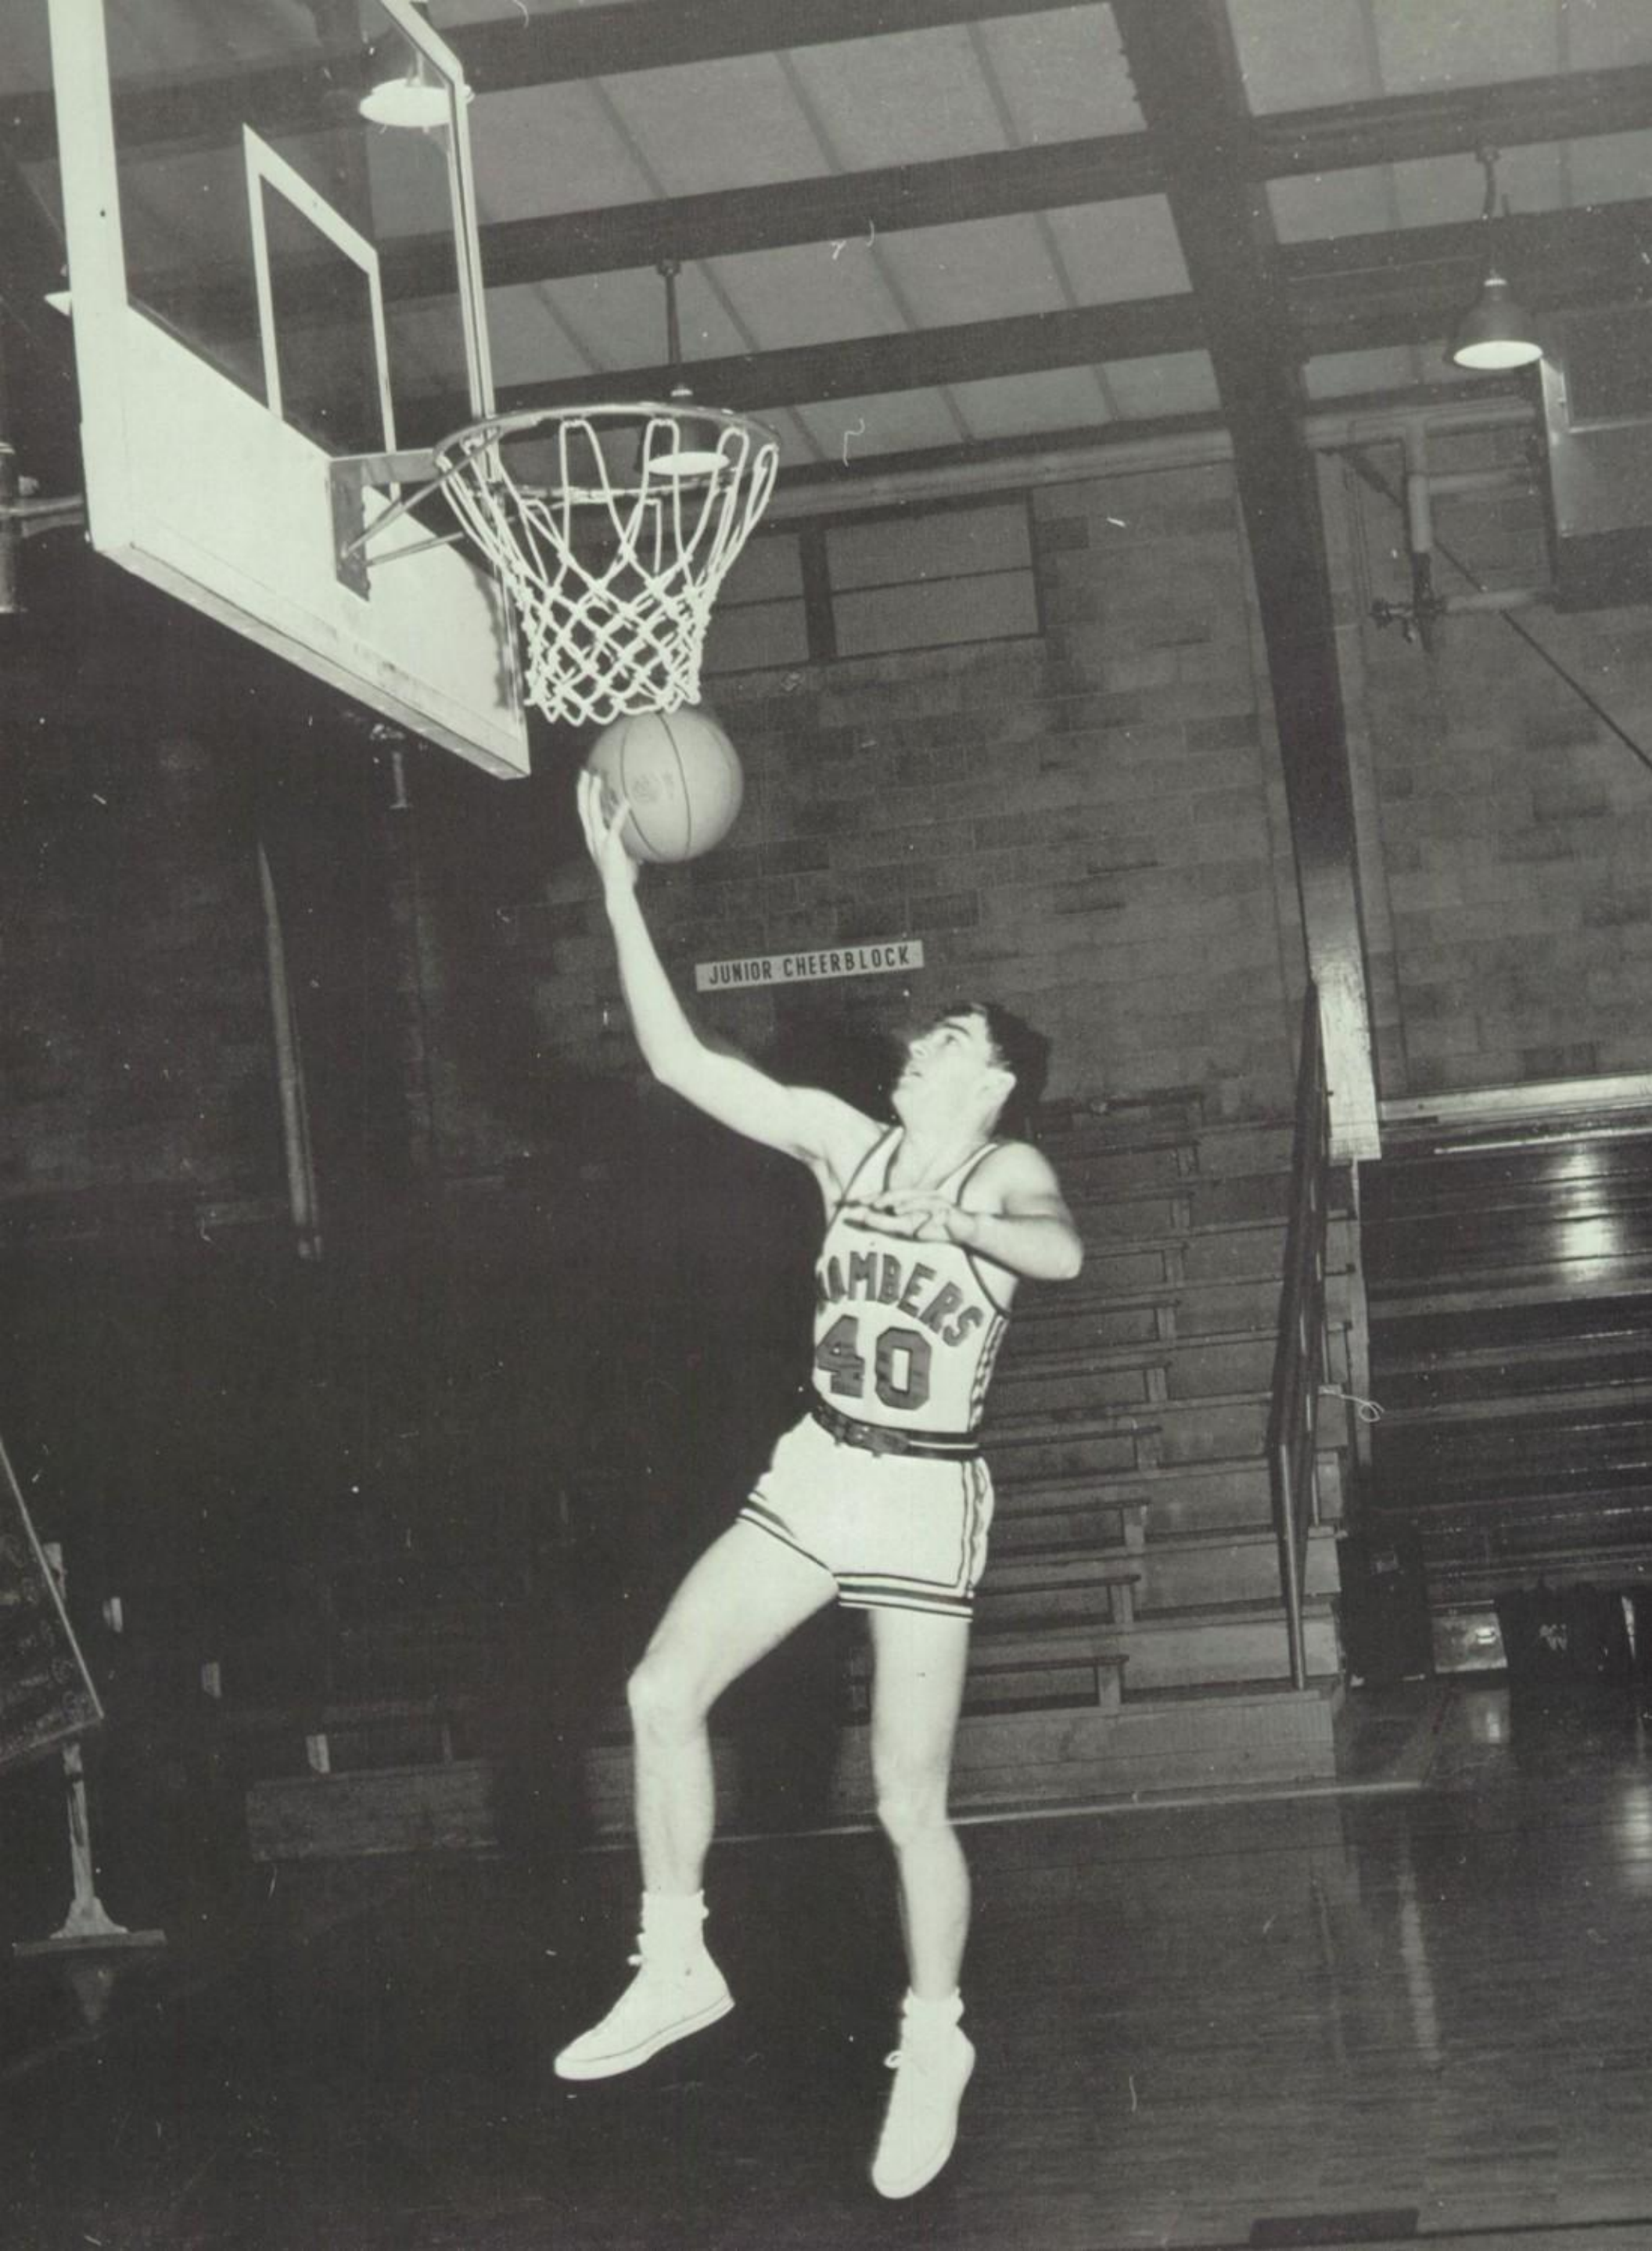

The purpose of the W-Club is to instill desirable attitudes in the participants of sports. Such traits as sportsmanship, dependability, leadership, and a sense of responsibility are goals of the W-Club. The members learn the value of working as a team and contributing to its well-being.

The lettermen are looked upon as representatives of W.H.S. by other schools; therefore, it's their task to exhibit the Bomber traditions.

W-CLUB

ATHLETICS . . . GOLDEN FACTOR IN SCHOOL LIFE

Like classroom instruction and extra-curricular activities, sports play an important role in the development of the Williamsport students. The athletic aspect of school life accomplishes several purposes. With the great emphasis on the physical condition of today's Americans, sports such as baseball, basketball, cross-country, and track help many young men keep in shape.

Not only does strength of body stem from school athletics, but also firm foundations for strength of character. Many valuable lessons in responsibility, leadership, cooperation, and self-control are learned by the Bombers.

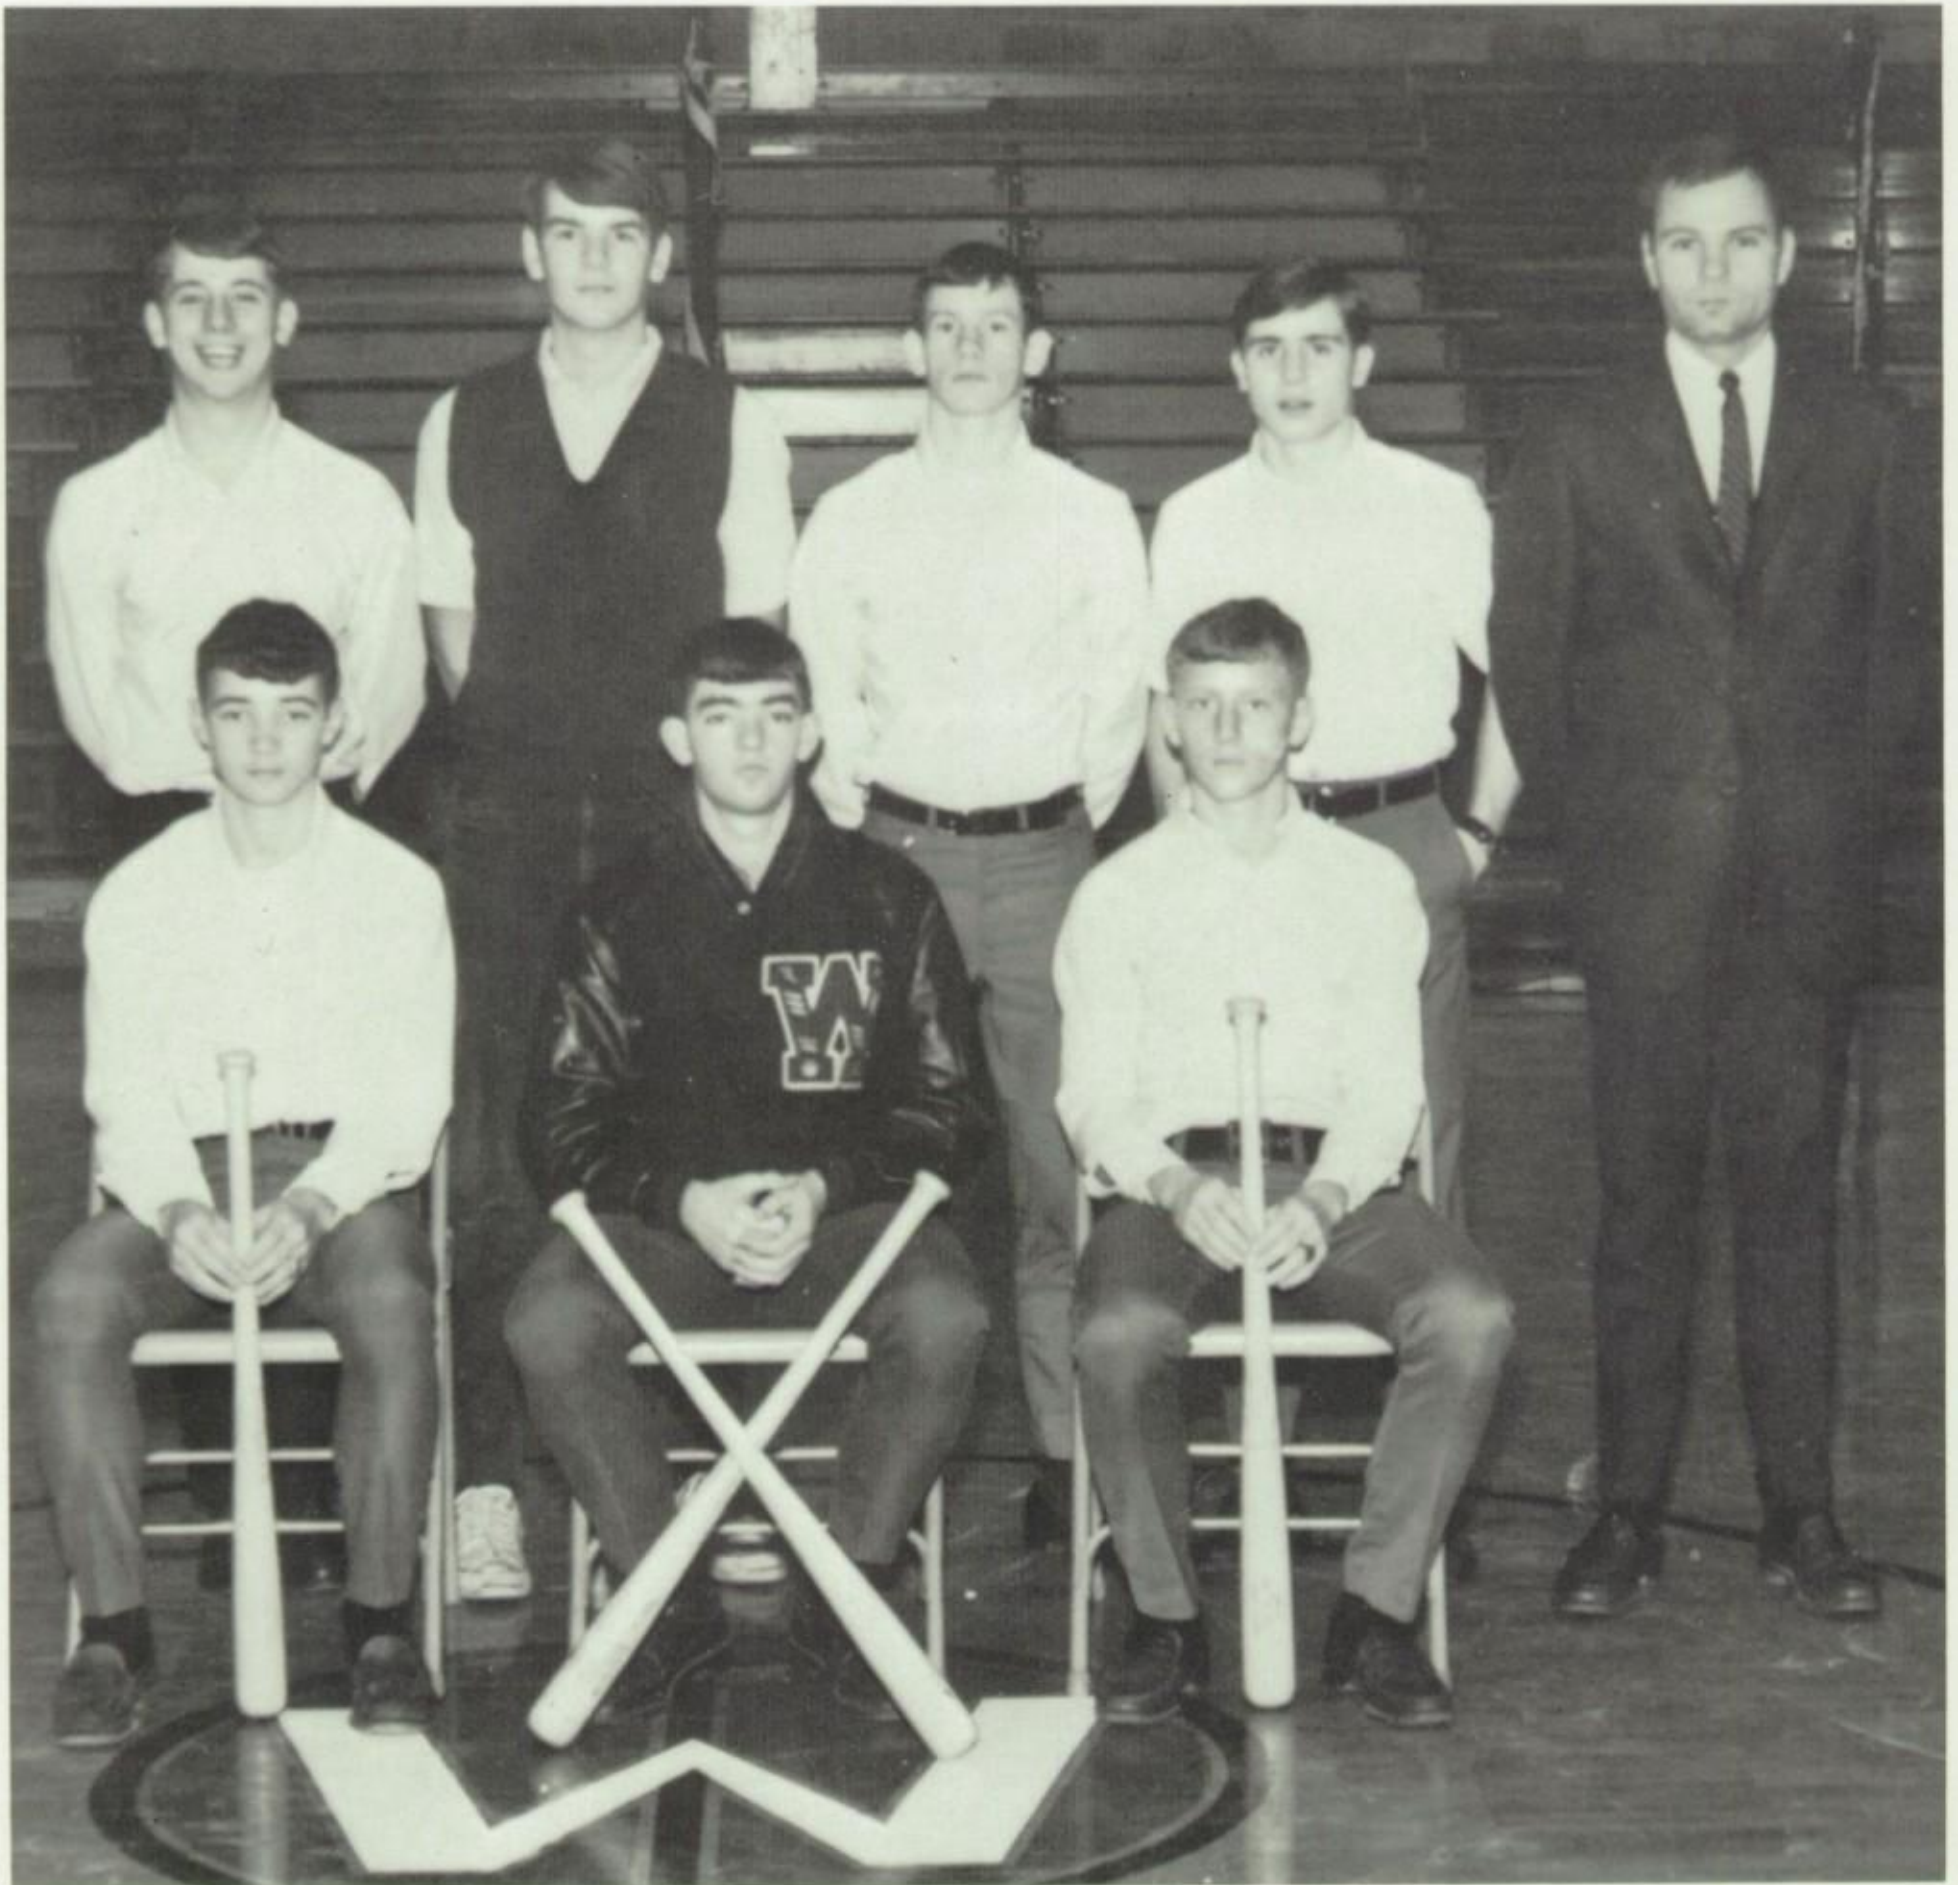

School athletic events are a favorite entertainment of the community of Williamsport. These contests also provide a healthy outlet for the boundless energies of today's youth.

The ball is in the air, and both team's members wait anxiously to grab it.

FAMILIAR FACES AT W.H.S.

The faces encountered in the halls of Williamsport School are many and varied. The small freckled ones are the picture of innocence. Older faces reflect the inherent energy and mischief of youth. Still others hold the characteristics of wisdom and authority.

To whom do these familiar faces belong? Behind each one there is an unforgettable personality, an intricate part of our school life. Behind some are our classmates and other fellow students. Others are the faces of teachers who are always glad to help us with our many problems. No matter how often we see them, we never tire of them because they belong to our friends at Williamsport High School.

During his free period, Mr. Worl takes an opportunity to figure the grades of one of his social studies classes.

RENDERING DAILY SERVICES

Richard and Helen Mornout have the task of keeping the school premises "ship shape."

Mrs. Martha Simpson is the school secretary. She works in both Mr. Burns' office and Mr. Tobin's.

The cooks prepare nutritious meals for several hundred students a day. They are Mrs. Bertha Reitz, head cook; Mrs. Ruby Sipes, Mrs. Naomi Meyers, and Mrs. Betty Wertz. Not shown is Mrs. Pauline Johnson, substitute cook.

Mrs. Jonora Pearson, R.N., cares for injured students and administers many public health tests throughout the school year.

IN REMEMBRANCE . . .

RUSTY SIMPSON

We, the Class of 1968, will always remember our departed friend and classmate, Russell James Simpson. He began school with us in first grade; he was one of us.

Rusty, like all of us, was faced with the many problems of youth. He sought the answers to the problems, but a tragic death prevented him from ever attaining an understanding of himself and the world around him.

Although he will not be with us on graduation day, nor recall old times with us at class reunions, the memory of Rusty Simpson will not fade as the years go by. We will remember his quick smile, his sense of humor, and his great musical ability.

When we remember school days at Williamsport, we will remember Rusty.

FINAL YEAR FILLED

Mr. Burns counseled each senior individually. He did much to help the students prepare for the world outside Bingy High. Here he and Linda Stamm discuss her future plans.

"What lies down the track and around the day approaches.

One of the tasks which the seniors didn't mind in the least was the selecting of commencement announcements.

WITH GOLDEN DAYS

The clock ticks away the minutes, hours, days. Tick . . . they're first graders playing cowboys on the playground. Tock . . . they're young men and women venturing out into the world. At times they doubted that they would ever grow up, but now they are seniors in high school. These last days are precious, and packed with tomorrow's memories.

The members of the Class of 1968 have shared many happy experiences and numerous sorrows. They have had some disagreements, but the joy of being a class outweighs the dissension.

Clad in the traditional senior cords, these three classmates share a joke.

d?" each senior asks himself as the big

In September, the Seniors selected their commencement announcement design. Later they ordered senior keys. Formal photographs were taken, and in December the "swapping" lasted for several days. The measuring for caps and gowns kindled the growing longing for graduation day.

The clock ticks on relentlessly. One minute they can hardly bear the waiting for that great event; the next, they are saddened by the thought of leaving the class behind as they venture forth upon a strange journey. The final year is filled with Golden Days.

Student Council Representative Nancy Hurley, treasurer Nancy Walters, Student Council Representative Jerry High, secretary Greg Balser, vice-president Randy Wurtsbaugh, and president Mike Livengood.

Jon Wood, Gary Johnson, and Bob Fix looked as if they had just stepped out of "Esquire" at the Fall Fashion Show sponsored by the class in October.

Led by their officers and sponsors, the Juniors set out early in the school year to reach their goal for the 1968 Junior-Senior Prom. Besides holding the ever-occurring bakesales and selling concessions at all home ball games, the industrious class members scheduled many work campaigns. In October, they sponsored a Fall Fashion Show. Members of the class and members of the faculty modeled fashions from Jean Miller's and the Villager of Attica. When P.T.O. Carnival time rolled around, they were determined to win the King and Queen contest for their candidates, Steve May and Cheryl Walters. Before the first home basketball game, the girls of the class, assisted by the mothers of class members, sponsored a well-attended spaghetti supper. For two weeks during November, the Juniors sold Christmas cards. This project, as did the others, added to the ever-growing funds to be used for the prom.

Faculty members, Mrs. Sharon Roberts, Mrs. Christine Lawrence, Mrs. Susan Stephan, Miss Marilyn Kielas, Mrs. Jean Diehl, Mr. Vinton Woodard, Mr. Dick Young, Mr. Barry Worl, and Mr. Leonard Burns, helped the Juniors in making their style show a success by modeling fashions for the "more mature."

LAST, BUT NOT LEAST . . .

The 1968 Goldenrod could not have been prepared for you without the help of several devoted persons. I would like to thank our photographer, Mr. Morris Bowen; and the advisers, Mrs. Susan Stephan and Mr. Leonard Burns. A staff of ambitious juniors and seniors sold a record number of advertisements and books; much credit is due them.

This Goldenrod was edited with one thought in mind,—to capture for you many aspects of an important year in your lives. Now and in years to come, I hope that you can leaf through these pages and treasure the memories which they hold. The faces, styles, and customs will change, but one thing will remain the same: you were intricate parts of a wonderful year at Williamsport School.
